

Howard Paskowitz Shares Insights Into Rental Development at the North American New Apartment Construction Symposium and Expo

Toronto – June 8, 2018 – On June 7, 2018 Howard Paskowitz, Director of Development, shared his insights on an expert panel at the 7th annual North American New Apartment Construction Symposium and Expo, a conference that brings together North America's foremost experts in the multi-family residential, mixed-use, student and senior housing sectors.

Taking place at Metro Toronto Convention Centre, Howard joined industry leaders to discuss property development, the key differences between rental and condo buildings and how to decided which to build. Directed at experienced developers, the panel spoke about developing rental and condo properties and their key differences including design, unit mix and size, amenities and zoning.

The symposium is held to address critical and timely issues that are driving change in the industry today with an aim to propel the industry forward with greater insights and business practices on both new apartment construction and mixed-use development. Now in its seventh year, the Symposium Series delivers an impressive educational program with renowned leading edge speakers, moderators and panelists.
